World Economic Forum, January 14, 2016

WASHINGTON DC, Sept 1, 2016: Lawrence Dell, Dr. Alexandra Reed Lajoux, and a small group of experienced entrepreneurs formed CapEx to provide clients and their advisors immediate access to highly qualified specialists who address the increasingly complex challenges of a given corporate initiative or legal case. The CapEx mission is to match the client’s need to the right expertise with unprecedented speed and precision.

CapEx has created the Capital Expert Registry™, quickly connecting clients to individuals of unmatched reputation in fields considered most critical (and most litigated) in business transactions. CapEx brings together more than 100 industry-recognized subject matter experts, located in major financial centers, to deliver customized solutions to a host of corporate problems that surface in and around financial transactions and beyond. These Capital Experts™, comprising the Capital Expert Registry™, are available “on demand” throughout the world to provide the right person or team at the right time to deliver the right solution to the most critical risks and challenges a company faces, including accounting, compensation, corporate governance, crisis and risk management, cross-border issues, economics, finance, insurance, shareholder relations, turnarounds, and valuation. In addition, CapEx can deploy its Capital Experts™ to act as consulting experts or trial experts in matters that involve litigation.

CapEx co-founders Dell and Lajoux bring together operational expertise, thought leadership in transactions, and an established network of experienced experts. Mr. Dell, CEO, is a successful executive in publishing and software. Founding principal Dr. Lajoux is a globally recognized expert and author of numerous works in the field of mergers and acquisitions and other complex corporate transactions, many of which are seminal works in the field.
